Zoomoozik comes along at a time when the music business is a cutthroat jungle, providing a level playing field with state-of-the-art technology, a place for unsigned bands and artists to have their own online guide and record label to help them develop their careers in the music industry by selling MP3 downloads and ringtones within an online music community.

"It's refreshing to see a company like Zoomoozik come along with a new approach to the dying recording industry and who actually care about developing bands from the ground up," says The RockIt Publisher Rory Rogers.
